Contract Let On Calloway Portion

Construction On 4-Lane Expected To Start Soon

Construction of the Calloway County portion of the four-laning of U. S. 641 between Murray and Benton is expected to start in the very near future, D. O. Sullivan of the Reidland District Office of the Kentucky Department of Highways said today.

Calloway County Judge Robert O. Miller said that he had received notification Monday afternoon that the contract on the project had been awarded Dec. 16 following bid openings in Frankfort.

Low bidder on the 5.41 mile, long project was Smith and Dawson Construction Co. of Louisville. Sullivan said today that the estimated cost of the Calloway County portion of the four-laning project is $4,058,614.

The contract on the Marshall County portion of the project, which will cover a distance of 5.584 miles, is scheduled to be let Jan. 20 in Frankfort, Sullivan said today that the projected cost of that portion of the project should be similar to the cost of the Calloway County portion.

The Calloway County portion of the project will extend from the end of the present four-lane north of Murray to the Calloway-Marshall line. The Marshall County portion of the project will extend from the county line to a point 1.25 miles south of Benton, Sullivan said.

"I'm glad a West Kentucky governor has finally made good a promise made by the last four governors," Judge Miller said. The four-lane project has been proposed for U. S. 641 several times in the past.

"Julian Carroll has lived up to his primary commitment (on roads) to Calloway County," County Democratic Party Chairman Z. Enix said. "Hopefully this project will eventually tie in to the Purchase Parkway to give Calloway Countians better access to I-24," Enix added.

The contract awarded for the Calloway County portion, and the contract scheduled to be awarded on the Marshall County portion, include the grade and drain aspects of the construction. Contracts on the surfacing portion of the project will be let a later date.

The four-laning project will follow the existing roadway "pretty well," District Highway Engineer Robert Hodges has said in the past. In some cases, a new section of road will be constructed to align and upgrade the roadway.

No target date for the completion of the project has been given.

Union Votes Today On Contract Offer

Members of United Auto Workers Local 1068 were casting their ballots at press time today on a proposed new contract between the union and the Tappan Company. A union official reported at 12:30 p. m. that all ballots had not yet been cast by the union membership.

The official said that the results of the ratification vote would not be known until 3 p. m. today, or possibly later.

The contract proposal being voted on today was worked out in negotiating sessions held last week at Ken-Bar Inn near Kentucky Dam. Participating in those negotiating sessions were representatives of the union's international office and officials from Tappan's corporate headquarters in Mansfield, Ohio.

Neither the union nor the company has revealed any of the details of the current contract proposal.

The strike began on June 23, 1975 and since that time, four other contract proposals have failed to receive ratification from the union membership.

Over 600 union workers at the local Tappan plant have been idled during the 19-month duration of the strike.

Coffee Boycott Having Little Effect In Murray, Grocers Say

A coffee boycott that was begun in New York City is so far having little effect in Murray, local grocery managers said today.

Some instances of consumers "hoarding" coffee were reported with isolated cases where consumers bought coffee in case lots.

Supermarket chains in New York City, Ohio, Massachusetts and upstate New York are urging consumers not to buy coffee and are providing discounts for substitutes for coffee.

Coffee prices in some parts of the country were reported at $3 per pound and above today. The price of a pound of brand-name coffee in Murray this morning was $2.49, but store managers said an increase at the wholesale level had already been announced and that the increase would have to be passed on to the consumers.

Phil Liddle, manager of Storey's Food Giant here, said "It (a boycott) has been tried before but never worked. I hope it does work," Liddle added, saying he would "prefer not to sell another pound of coffee."

Liddle, and other store managers contacted in Murray today, said that local stores are selling coffee at cost and, in some cases, are actually losing money on coffee sales.

"If enough people would observe the boycott it would help," Joe Parker of Parker's Market said. Parker said, however, that he's afraid too many people enjoy a cup of coffee, especially in the mornings, and that the boycott could prove to be ineffective for that reason.

David Dornfeld, manager of Big John's said that the local price would reach the $3 price already in effect in some other parts of the country in the near future.

Most store managers said that the reason the price has not jumped to $3 here so far is that local stores had ample stocks on hand at the lower price. When new supplies are purchased, at the higher wholesale price, grocers here will be forced to pass the increase along to consumers.

"We can't feel any effect from the boycott here," David Smotherman, manager of the Northside IGA said. "We haven't had much of a run on coffee as yet," he added.

Elsewhere in the nation, an Ohio supermarket chain, Liberal Markets Inc. with 40 stores in Dayton and Cincinnati, continued selling coffee at $2.59 per pound today, but launched a newspaper-and-billboard advertising campaign Monday urging shoppers not to buy.

Shopwell Inc. in New York City is running ads in which the company president says, "The money you and I are being asked to pay for coffee is outrageous." The newspaper ads include 20-cent coupons for tea, cocoa or hot chocolate.

Advertisements for Boston's Stop-and-Shop Co. Inc. also included coupons — for coffee. The ads urged customers to find a substitute, but added, "If you must buy coffee, buy it only when it's on sale," and offered 70 cents off on a two-pound can.

In Syracuse, N.Y., on Monday, the Consumer Affairs Office announced that five major chains representing 33 area supermarkets had agreed to join the campaign.

The boycott began last week when New York City's Commissioner of Consumer Affairs, Elinor Guggenheimer, said that a 50 per cent cut in national coffee consumption would reduce prices. She said she was abstaining from her usual 14 cups a day.

Retail coffee prices around the country range up to $3, roughly twice the price of two years ago. Current wholesale prices are also at about $3, which means the retail price is still going up.

Thompson Named To Federal Board

Dr. James F. Thompson, since 1967 a professor of economics at Murray State University, has been named to the board of directors of the Louisville branch of the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis for a three-year term, which began on January 1, 1977.

A native of Murray, Dr. Thompson, 50, received his undergraduate degree from Murray State, his master's from the University of Kentucky and his doctoral degree from the University of Chicago.

A specialist in microeconomics, which is the study of fluctuating prices, he taught agricultural economics at the University of Kentucky for 16 years before joining the Murray State faculty.

Dr. Thompson has written numerous articles for agricultural and business publications and is widely recognized in his field.

He was notified of his appointment to the bank's board by Theodore R. Allison, secretary of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System.

Heart Fund Appointments Announced

Four appointments to leadership positions in the 1977 Calloway County Heart Fund drive have been announced by the state campaign chairman, Attorney General Robert F. Stephens of Frankfort.

They are: Buel E. Stalls, Murray, county Heart Fund chairman; Mrs. Willard Alls, Murray, county Heart Fund treasurer; Mrs. Hubert R. Barrow, Hazel, Hazel Heart Fund chairman and Miss Phyllis Wunderlin, Murray, Murray Heart Sunday chairman.

The month-long Heart Fund appeal will be launched Wednesday, February 2, with Coffee Day. The house-to-house solicitation will be conducted on Heart Sunday, February 27. Sponsoring Heart Sunday in Murray is the Panhellenic Council of Murray State University.

Robert F. Stephens urged full support of the 1977 appeal, noting that 500,000 Kentuckians suffer from heart disease and that 57 per cent of all known causes of death in the Commonwealth are due to heart and blood vessel diseases.

He also announced that Mrs. Willard Alls will continue to serve as the year-round Memorial Gifts chairman for Heart in Calloway County.

A new high total of $812,512.90 was contributed last year to the Heart Fund in Kentucky, Stephens said.

Ford Proposes Income Tax Cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford today proposed a $10 billion personal income tax cut along with corporate tax reductions and an increase in personal Social Security taxes. The package is nearly a carbon copy of tax cut proposals Congress rejected last year.

Like last year's package, the new proposal includes $2.5 billion in corporate tax reductions. It also calls for a $5.1 billion increase in personal Social Security taxes over a two-year period. Last year's proposal called for a $1.65 billion increase in personal Social Security taxes.

The administration proposal last year was linked to compensating cuts in spending. But this time, Ford's proposal was "initially unclear on whether he would seek compensating spending cuts," Ford noted in a message to Congress that he will be sending up his spending proposals with his budget later this month.

Ford estimated his tax proposals would save $227-a-year for a family of four with an income of $15,000.

The Democratic controlled Congress is expected to await the economic stimulus plan of President-elect Carter rather than act on Ford's proposal.

Carter has indicated his program would focus on job creation. Ford's tax proposals were targeted at what the President called middle-income tax payers.

"The tax reductions of 1975 and 1976 focused tax relief on the lower income taxpayer," Ford said. "However, it is high time to focus substantial tax relief on middle-income taxpayers."

The package includes a proposal to increase the individual income tax exemption from the present $750 to $1,000, said L. William Seidman, the President's economic adviser.

Ford's proposed tax saving for individuals would be effective with the current year. It would be offset to some degree by increases in Social Security taxes effective next Jan. 1.

FORT HEIMAN ADDED TO NATIONAL REGISTER — Official notification has been received here from the Kentucky Heritage Commission that Fort Heiman, a Confederate fort site during the Civil War, has been added to the National Register of Historic Places. This photo is a view of sally port looking eastward. The cabin at the upper right is located on the site of the main battery during the occupation by Gen. Nathan Bedford Forrest. The cabin was used by Dr. Rainey T. Wells, founder of Murray State University, as a "hideaway" and hunting lodge for a number of years. The upper edge of the bluff is in the background. The fort is located 1.6 miles southeast of

New Concord. Listing on the National Register gives recognition that the site has historical, architectural, or archaeological significance within the context of the community, state or nation. Benefits include protection against adverse action by federal agencies and eligibility for consideration for a federal 50-50 matching grant for restoration. Other Calloway County listings in the National Register include Wrather Hall on the MSU campus, the E. S. Diuguid home on Main Street, presently owned by Edna Knight, and the McCuiston homeplace, a two-story brick home near New Concord.

Pills Might Kill More Than Her Pain

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1976 by Chicago Tribune N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My mother always has something the matter with her. It's either a "splitting headache," "dizzy spells" or eating something that didn't "agree" with her.

She eats "pain-killers" like you wouldn't believe. If the directions say to take two, she takes four. She buys every kind she can get without a prescription. I've tried to tell her this is dangerous, but she won't listen to me.

She reads your column faithfully and thinks you know everything, so maybe you can straighten her out.

I'm not exaggerating, and I'm not a child. I'm a 30-year-old married woman who loves her mother and is worried sick about her.

WITHHOLD MY NAME

DEAR WITHHOLD: Tell your mother that Abby said a "pain" is Nature's signal that something is wrong. And to kill the pain and ignore the warning instead of seeing a physician is not only foolish, it could be fatal.

DEAR ABBY: I was invited to someone's home for dinner, and when I arrived, the stereo was blaring loudly. All during dinner and even afterward when we were talking, the stereo was turned up so high I could scarcely hear anything else, and I had to practically shout to be heard.

Needless to say, I didn't enjoy the evening. In fact, when I left I had a headache.

Don't people realize how rude it is to have a stereo turned on so loud that it's impossible to carry on a normal conversation? I hope you print this.

PAT FROM PARKLAND

DEAR PAT: I'll print it for: those who aren't aware that loud stereo music is often more irritating than entertaining, plus those who timidly tolerate it rather than ask their host (or hostess) to please turn it down—a reasonable request.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a grown man who cheats at cards, and when confronted, throws the cards up in the air, runs to his room and broods for the rest of the evening?

Abby, this man has a Ph. D. in nuclear physics and holds a $40,000-a-year job.

We have been playing bridge regularly for over three years. This past weekend when I caught him cheating, I confronted him and asked for a re-deal. He literally threw a tantrum. We're not speaking now as a result of all this.

Should I have kept my mouth shut, or was I justified in letting him know I was on to his sleight-of-hand trick?

NAMELESS, PLEASE

DEAR NAMELESS: You should not have kept your mouth shut. But had you waited to tell him privately instead of humiliating him before the others, you could have avoided an ugly scene.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (24¢) envelope.

FOR WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 5, 1977

What kind of day will tomorrow be? To find out what the stars say, read the forecast given for your birth sign.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20)

Some information you have needed in a financial matter can now be obtained — possibly through a social contact. It should make your day!

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21)

Stars not too auspicious. This means a need for more concentrated effort, perhaps a readjustment of your schedule — the better to suit changing requirements.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21)

Emphasize your resourcefulness and sense of responsibility. It will pay off in the days ahead. Do not let down in effort until projects are satisfactorily completed.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23)

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23)

A day, when your innate aggressiveness will pay off. Energy and drive will finally help you to achieve some long-cherished objective.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

This is no time for "giving up" — especially if a project or task is really worth a second, even a third try. Your ability to persist is the answer.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

Don't make agreements with "strings" attached. You must be free to deviate from plans where advisable.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

An average day, but give some thought to future ventures. The p.m. hours will be excellent for following up on new contacts.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

Jupiter in excellent aspect. A bit of daring could pay off now. Don't hesitate to try unique ideas, methods.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Some adverse influences, especially as related to financial affairs. Not a day for taking any chances with present assets.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Avoid current tendencies to scatter energies and to start too many things at one time. Neither enter into new activities without thorough investigation.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20)

You will face competition now, but it won't stymie you. Rather, it will prove a stimulating challenge.

YOU BORN TODAY are an extremely versatile individual, ambitious and endowed with the persistence needed to reach your loftiest goals. Your nature is a gregarious one, yet you like to be alone when trying to think constructively. You are progressive in your thinking and could become a leader in almost any field of your choice. Many Holiday Reunions Held In Concord Area

By Estelle Spiceland
December 30, 1976

The Christmas holidays, as always, brought joy to some and sorrow to others.

When we put away the Christmas cards and the decorations (no job for us) we wonder what changes another year may bring, but like the chorus of a song we say:

"Many things about tomorrow,

I don't seem to understand, But I know who holds tomorrow,

And I know who holds my hand."

Many enjoyed family reunions. Mr. and Mrs. T. Patterson and baby daughter enjoyed Christmas at Concord, then went to Atlanta, Ga., for a family reunion with Linda Patterson's relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bucy had a new granddaughter visit with her parents from Paducah.

Otis Lovins' daughter, Wilma Gannon, her husband, Bern, and children, Andy, Tim, Kevin, Laura, and Mark, drove from Colorado Springs, to spend a lovely week at the old Kentucky home.

Guy Lovins, who has spent much time in hospitals the past year, arranged a family reunion of twenty-five relatives including the Gannons and Gene Lovins' family at the Triangle Inn on Christmas Eve morning.

The Denny Clarks who now live at our New Concord corner had their parents from Toledo and Michigan visit them during the holidays.

The Christmas spirit at Clyde Spiceland's Christmas reunion was not dampened by the lack of water when sand filled the well just before the arrival of guests and a granddaughter's wedding.

There were other reunions, also sad ones for many.

Deaths of those from this vicinity followed each other. First was Mrs. Beatrice Osborn Geurin in Michigan, which will be one p. m., Murray time, at the St. Simons Catholic Church at Washington, Ind.

Following the ceremony the reception will be held at the Washington Country Club.

All relatives and friends are invited to attend the wedding and the reception.

Mrs. Lula Ellison Brown, Mrs. Euna Bucy, Mrs. Dot Boy, Mrs. Wilson Farley, and Mrs. Faye Henry on Murray Route Five.

Each year we all have more to go to Heaven for than we had yesterday, for brand new angels are being added to the Heavenly choir, and more friends and loved ones are joining those who await us on the other side.

By the time this is printed a local option referendum legalizing the sale of alcoholic beverages in Murray and Calloway may be in the making to be voted on later.

Just after Christmas one headline in the local paper was "Drinking Blamed For Many Accidents During Holidays."

If this is true now, imagine conditions when store windows here display those intoxicants for sale.

Congratulations to the young Concord Church of Christ minister, Ed Davis, who knows what sorrows alcoholism can cause and dared to take his stand about it in his pre-Christmas church bulletin.

We need more like him.

LEXINGTON Ky. — Soon the refrain "Look Ma, no cavities!" may be heard all over Kentucky, thanks to a voluntary fluoride mouthrinse program being sponsored all across the state by the Health Services branch of the Department for Human Resources.

By MRS. W. P. WILLIAMS

The year 1976 has come to an end and it has passed so quickly. Now, the thought comes to me, what are we going to do with the new year beginning tomorrow? A new year is always exciting. It opens up new ideas new challenges, new work and it is rather frightening, in a way, to realize that it will be what we make it, good or bad. So, if it is up to us, then we had better get busy.

As gardeners, this will be planning month. Time for making our lists of new shrubs or trees to add to our yards. If a plant has "done its job," it is time to pull it up and replace it with one that will do better.

Has the soil filled in around a plant? Reset it. Has one grown too large? Either trim it harshly or put a smaller one in its place. Does the lawn have bare spots? or is it full of crab grass? Re-seed and touch it up.

In other words, it is time to take inventory. Go out and look around and see just what is needed. Take a pencil and paper with you. It is remarkable how much good you can do in this way.

Meanwhile we have two months of cold weather. During that time in addition to checking on the outside needs, we can turn our attention to the indoors. House plants seem to have come into their own this year. You find them in all sizes, big and little, tall and tiny. They range from the big Staghorn Fern and Bamboo down to tiny window-sill plants. All of them add to the beauty of the living room and seem to thrive in the bathroom or kitchen where the air is more moist. They also furnish a little more freshness to the atmosphere.

Have you forgotten how we used to cut the top off a sweet potato and put it in a jar of water? It makes an interesting bit of green for the winter. Or a slice of carrot set in a saucer of water? Or of beet? It is fun too, to see them put out little curls of greenery. A carrot and beet placed in the same bowl give a variety of foliage. Children love to fix these and watch them grow.

Days are getting longer, slowly but definitely. Before you know it, we will see crocus peeping out, or the Christmas rose or Helleborus. Nursery catalogs are coming in, in all their tempting beautiful colors.

As the New Year dawns, I hope each of you will enjoy health, happiness and the good things of this life. And don't forget to smile. It is the key that opens many doors.

Good Shepherd United Methodist Church Women Hold Meet At Church

Mrs. Mildred Smith, president, presided at the meeting of the Ruth Wilson Circle of the Good Shepherd United Methodist Church Women held on Tuesday, December 14, at the church. Reports were given by Mrs. Marie Jacobsma and Mrs. Alice Knight.

Favors which had been made by members of the group to be taken to the Murray-Calloway County Hospital to be placed on patients' trays for the holidays were shown.

Mrs. Smith announced that the week of prayer and self denial will be held at the church on Sunday, January 16, at two p. m. This will be a joint meeting of both circles. She also announced that the District Day Apart meeting will be held at Good Shepherd on Sunday, March 27 at 2:30 p. m. prophesies of a promised Messiah. She also read a hymn, "Once In Royal David's City."

The program leader, Mrs. Bertha Young, gave a very interesting and informative reading on the promises and the fulfillment of those promises in the birth of Jesus.

The hymn, "Joy To The World," was sung. Mrs. Mildred Smith read "One Solitary Life" and "What Is the Christmas Story," closing with prayer.

Lexington-Fayette County Health Department, they are rinsing their mouths with the fluoride solution once weekly to help reduce tooth decay. They will continue it for 30 weeks.

Every Tuesday morning a group of parents comes to Cassidy 30 minutes before school starts to prepare the mouthrinse solution for distribution to the classroom teachers.

Each child takes about a tablespoon of the mouthrinse from a paper cup, "swishes" it around the teeth for one minute, "spits" it back into the cup, then, uses a paper napkin to absorb the solution. The paper cups and napkins are collected in a plastic bag for disposal.

The program began in Fayette County in October and so far 17,268 school children in grades kindergarten through six, are participating in the program. Of the 501 students enrolled at Cassidy, 467 of them take part in the program.

"Since participation is completely voluntary," noted Mrs. Joyce Bothe, Dental Health Coordinator for Lexington-Fayette County, "parents or guardians must fill out a consent form before a child can take part in the weekly mouthrinse."

"The school board, the teachers, the parents have all been very supportive; that's why we have been so successful," added Mrs. Bothe.

Mrs. Dorothy A. Friend, Cassidy principal, also commends the program: "Because it is held at school and it is free, it reaches the student who otherwise would not benefit."

The cost of making the fluoride mouthrinse available to the students is about 32 cents a year per child and would be absorbed by state and local health departments.

According to Dr. Larman Sprouse, director of the state dental program, national surveys have shown that "when used regularly by children five to 14 years old, the mouthrinse can reduce cavities by 30 to 40 per cent."

The fluoride itself is actually tasteless," he said. It is quite safe for the child and would not harm him, even if he should accidentally swallow some of it."

So far, the fluoride mouthrinse has reached Kentucky youngsters; so that "yucky stuff" may just be the best 32 cents Kentucky has invested in preventive care.

UNDUE DIETING

Adolescents may admit the importance of breakfast but give many excuses for skipping this meal. For example, many adolescent girls express undue concern about weight. Their "ideal" figure borders on underweight, a reflection of today's concept of attractiveness. Well-developed bodies with healthy skin, shiny hair, and firm teeth, free of decay, are enhanced by good food habits, including breakfast each day.

The Road Ahead

Our nation's Bicentennial year, which mounted to crescendo in a mighty outpouring of patriotic fervor on July 4, has come to an end.

The celebrations are over and the future is upon us, to cope with in a world whose hallmark is a frighteningly swift change from the ways of the past.

America's first 200 years were in all respects a modern miracle. From a group of underpopulated colonies, huddled along the Atlantic seaboard, a minor element in the world as it was then, Americans conquered a vast wilderness enormously blessed with the bounties of nature.

They, and the succeeding generations welcomed to these shores from the old world, populated the new lands, wrested untold wealth from the soil and became the richest of nations.

American discoveries and inventions in every field became the envy and the benefactors of people everywhere.

Grudgingly, step by halting step, this nation perforce gave up its old philosophy of "no entangling alliances" and entered upon an unwanted role of leadership in a largely ungrateful world.

Television, Heal Thyself

The free speech protections of the First Amendment have been reaffirmed in Federal Judge Warren J. Ferguson's ruling against the controversial "family hour" on network television. We applaud his decision, but at the same time we hope it does not spell the end of the attempt to keep shows exploiting sex and violence off the television screen between 7 and 9 p. m.

That may sound paradoxical, but this case did not turn on whether the family viewing policy is good or not. It dealt with the relationship between the Federal Communications Commission and the broadcasting industry. This has become, and remains, a problem area for application of the First Amendment — reconciling the federal claim of power to regulate broadcasting with the Bill of Rights provision that Congress shall make no law abridging freedom of speech or of the press.

Judge Ferguson found that the FCC had bypassed administrative procedures established by law when it pressured the television industry into adopting the family viewing policy. Evidence was submitted that broadcasters were led to believe they might lose their licenses if they did not comply. This kind of behind-the-scenes activity should not substitute for the formal procedures which provide for public hearings on regulatory policies.

It would hardly be more satisfying if the FCC did follow legal procedures in an effort to impose the family viewing policy. It has already improperly extended its authority

We would be naive to presume that we did all this. It behooves us to remember, in chastened mood, that it was those who came before who brought us to this pinnacle of national prestige.

Equally chastening should be the thought that the burden of maintaining our country's place in the world bears squarely upon this generation.

We know now from bitter experience that, in spite of our power and prestige and unselfish good offices, we cannot police the world. We have learned that it isn't axiomatic that we win every war.

Can we meet the challenges? Can we keep pace with this swiftly changing world? Can we learn to accept the fact that the answers to the problems we face aren't to be found in the back of the book and that we must solve them ourselves, the hard way?

Great nations rise by the total efforts of their people. They fall through sloth and greed and lack of dedication to principle.

When the history of the next hundred years is written, what will be said of us?

into programming with its fairness doctrine, which can inhibit discussion of controversial issues on radio and television and creates recurring problems. In fact, what is needed is for the FCC to allow the broadcast industry to police itself. If the "family hour" concept is widely supported by viewers, the industry will respond.

The movie rating system has been of some value in protecting children from unsuitable entertainment, and it is regrettable that a similar problem should now be represented by television sets in American homes. The rating system, for all its imperfections, is an effort by the movie industry to meet a public concern by policing itself.

Television producers who took the family viewing policy into court had a good case on constitutional grounds. It is another matter whether they could argue as well against the principle of following self-imposed guidelines of taste and morality in programs aired before the bedtime of small children. In fact a little more sensitivity to taste and morality would be welcome in television schedules whatever the hour.

Although Judge Ferguson has given the FCC a dressing down for the way it tried to impose such guidelines, the problem still exists. If broadcasters are sensitive to their responsibility, they will not abandon the principle of the "family hour" just because a judge has told them they can. They are subject to the judgment of viewers they supposedly serve.

Bone-Chilling Days Meant Hog Killing Time At Home

By M. C. Garrott

If my dad was alive today, I know what he would have been doing these past few bone-chilling days. He would have been killing hogs.

Dad was one of nine children who grew up on a Christian County farm. He knew what came naturally at home when the temperature dropped to zero or below for the first time in a winter. Grandfather would drop everything, get the folks together and kill hogs. He would kill a bunch of them, because he put up meat not only for his big family but for the score or more "hands" who lived on the place and their families.

Killing hogs came as naturally to Dad as Christmas. He loved the excitement of it. He didn't kill in the fall, like a lot of people did. He'd wait until it really got cold as it has been lately. Generally, this was shortly after Christmas and in January.

My! How my brothers and I dreaded that ordeal. We liked the tasty meat that came out of it, but we hated the work involved to get it. Too, we didn't see the logic of it then, as we do now. We thought Dad was killing hogs just because he enjoyed it. We didn't fully realize at the time how important it was to our eating habits. Chances are there wouldn't have been much meat for Mom to put on the table in the coming months if he hadn't raised and butchered those hogs, because times were tough.

It was the Great Depression era, and Dad was an insurance salesman. Selling insurance in those days was about as difficult as selling subscriptions to "The Saturday Review."

We never had more than four or five hogs to kill as compared with the poleful they'd hang up on my grandfather's place. Dad always bought his in the early fall as 40 or 45-pound shoats.

Then he would feed them out on whatever he could lay his hands on for four months or so before they'd be ready to butcher and the weather cold enough for him to do it.

Dad liked to kill his hogs by shooting them between the eyes with a .22 rifle. They wouldn't make a sound as he would shoot them. They would just drop to their knees, and as quick as a cat, Dad would pounce on them and slash their throats with a razor-sharp knife. Up they would go then by their hind feet to hang from a rack until they "bled out."

Once I asked if I could shoot one. Dad said, "Sure," and handed me the rifle. The hog was chewing on some of the corn we had baited him into position with, and looking up, seemed to say, "You wouldn't shoot an old buddy, would you?" I couldn't, and handed the rifle back to Dad. He grumbled something about "city boys," and quickly shot the hog. I never tried again.

A lot of the neighbors always turned out to help and were rewarded with fresh sausage, tenderloins and spareribs.

They would dump the carcasses into a vat of boiling water and scrape them clean of hair before they'd hang them up and "gut them," removing all the insides. Mom always had a big boiling pot going in which they would cook out the fat for lard. A lot of this fat came from the intestines and only a skunk smells worse than the intestines of a hog at butchering time.

With the fat cooked out, these became cracklings. A lot of folks make crackling bread, or "fatty bread," out of them, cooking them in corn meal. It was quite a hog-killing delicacy, but I never developed any great love for it.

Dad often told us how he and his brothers would dry out the bladders, blow them up like balloons and bop each other over the head with them, but he was always too busy to show us how it was done — for which we were grateful.

The lean trimmings were ground into sausage — two-thirds lean and one-third fat. That's where my brothers and I came in — turning that sausage mill. Out would creep the sausage through a funnel-like sleeve to be tightly packed into cloth bags. Some was eaten fresh, but most of it went into the smokehouse.

Dad always liked for the meat to hang out in the cold for 24 or 48 hours to be thoroughly chilled before he would cure it. He would hang it in an open-ended shed through which the wind whistled sharply. My middle brother and I took turns standing guard over it with the .22 rifle throughout the night.

We would be on two hours and off two hours, and those were the longest nights of my life! If someone had yelled "Boo!" at me, I would probably have shot off my foot.

Once it was chilled, Dad would carefully salt the meat down in a big vat and leave it for a spell before putting it in the smokehouse and slowly smoking it until he figured it was ready for "ageing." He took great pride in his ham-curing abilities, and we seldom had one before it was at least two years old. Served with Mom's beaten biscuits, they were unforgettable.

I know we were hard pressed financially in those days, but Dad's hog killings made us rich in comparison with many. He received great personal satisfaction out of sharing some of the tender, fresh meat with our neighbors and friends.

My car might not start on these cold mornings; the gas furnace may seem to run excessively; and the newspaper may be late in showing up in the yard, but when the weather is clear, cold and crisp, I can't help but remember Dad and his hog killings.

I thank God I don't have to go through the same thing today, although I would probably be a better man if I did.

Consumer Comment

Earning At Home

By Robert F. Stephens
Attorney General

A recent advertisement of "earn money at home the easy way by folding T-shirts" is a typical scheme used to get the housewife or student to invest their money and time for little or no profit. Such inducements are often fraudulent schemes to take easy money from unthinking consumers and should be avoided.

A company from the Netherlands has been sending letters to housewives informing them of an opportunity to earn big money at home by folding T-shirts. The company requests the housewife to send a $50 deposit, which will supposedly be returned upon the housewife's completion of the trial package.

The ad also states that there is a collection and distribution depot in the same geographical area and that is why they have been "chosen" for an opportunity to make easy money. A distributor is supposed to live at this depot and will pay in cash for the finished work. The ad states that a person can make up to $250 per 1,000 folded T-shirts.

The problem, according to files in the Consumer Protection Division, is that those who have invested in this business have never received their trial packages of T-shirts and have never been refunded their $50 deposits. No one has been able to contact the distributor or any other representative of the company. Thus, the consumers have lost their money and have no way of recovering it.

Consumers should exercise caution and investigate any business offering a way to make easy money. If you are interested in some type of work-at-home program, you should at least:

- (1) Write and ask for all available literature about the company.
 - (2) Check with the Attorney General's Office or the Better Business Bureau.
 - (3) Know, before spending any money, what your total cost will be in time and money.
 - (4) Make sure all earnings claims or guarantees used in the sales pitch are in writing.
- If you have a consumer complaint, write to the Office of the Attorney General, Division of Consumer Protection, Frankfort, Ky. 40601. The office has found that it can most effectively deal with written complaints and encourages you to write when you have a complaint. However, if you have an emergency situation, call the Consumer Hotline. The number is 1-800-372-2960.

Reports of another boost in the wholesale price of coffee are particularly discouraging to those of us who are dependent upon the steaming brew to give us life each morning and to stimulate our creative juices periodically throughout the day.

With supermarket price tags topping the $3 a pound mark, the traditional coffee break may soon become a luxury event to be planned for and saved for much like a night on the town — or financed perhaps with a bank credit card.

The National Coffee Association blames the coffee price spiral on a severe frost that destroyed Brazil's coffee crop in 1975. Raw coffee prices have more than doubled since the disaster to the world's largest coffee producer. Worse, the association predicts that Brazil cannot produce another normal crop for at least three years.

The coffee crisis may not have the same impact on the national economy as the oil crisis, but it has the same roots — American dependence on foreign sources of supply.

Since we have heard of no schemes to develop alternative coffee resources, we can only endorse strict conservation measures — substituting warm U. S. - produced milk, for instance.

That, coupled with the coffee boycott being urged by several grocery chains across the nation, might get the message across to the coffee producers in South America.

Market Optimism Now Justified Says Service

NEW YORK (AP) — One of the most encouraging stock market outlooks, one that if correct would mean a Dow Jones industrial average of 1700 within five years, has been issued by the conservative Wright Investors Service.

Claiming "the basic economic forces which have depressed both the American economy and security prices have now decisively reversed their long-term trends," John Wright suggests that "realistic optimism" is now justified.

Wright, whose organization supplies the basic research for hundreds of millions of dollars in trust and pension funds, made the evaluation in his annual message to the New York Society of Security Analysts.

In it he stated that a high of 1150 points or better might be realized before the end of 1977, and that following a relatively minor bear market reaction in 1978, the general upward thrust will be resumed.

During this time, he said, a well-diversified portfolio of high quality equities which is held throughout minor cyclical ups and downs will "unquestionably outperform the market average and any so-called index funds."

Wright, who bases his forecasts on fundamental economic and market research, is highly regarded by other investment advisers, many of whom base their own estimates in part in his organization's studies.

The past 10 years have witnessed the evolution, and the past five years the end of an era, Wright said, during which formation and distribution of investment capital was "eroded, dissipated and exported."

The result, he continued, was "to bring down around us the structure of security valuations and distribution." This "sorry and destructive era" now is behind us, and a new progressive period is ahead, he said.

Chief among the reasons, in his opinion, is that the decline of capital formation through personal savings has been reversed as a result of an "enormous buildup" of funded, tax-deferred employee benefit plans.

Rising at an 8 per cent compound annual rate, these funds now total more than $400 billion, Wright noted, and must by law be invested in bona fide capital items, mainly corporate equity and debt.

He listed as among the other reasons for his bullishness:

— "The outflow of corporate capital to industrial applications abroad has been reversed as the aspirations of foreign workers and the inflation of foreign production costs rose to and beyond the point of competitive parity with the U.S."

— "The decline of the dollar and the flight of investment capital have been replaced by renewed world confidence, making the dollar 'once again the principal international currency of refuge.'"

— "The fundamental causes of the excessive inflation of 1973-1975 no longer exist."

— "The very long-term trend towards higher interest rates has been reversed. Future prime rates should be much closer to 6 per cent than to either the excessive highs of the past 10 years or the lows of the great depression of the 1930s."

Letter To The Editor

Support For Rescue Squad

Dear Editor,
I, O. C. Kimbro, have worked with the Kentucky Division of Forestry for nine years. I have been a forest warden for Calloway County for seven years. I also operate the fire plow for the Division of Forestry.

With these many years of fire fighting I have had the pleasure of knowing and working with each and every member of the Murray-Calloway County Rescue Squad. You can take it from me — they really know their job.

Their one goal is to do a job for the people of this county, and the job they are doing is one we can't do without. It takes a great deal of money to operate the equipment the Rescue Squad uses and to keep this equipment ready to move at a minute's notice.

I am sure there will be citizens in the county who will read this letter that have donated to the Rescue Squad and they will be blessed for their donations.

I urge others to consider and do the same. All donations are greatly appreciated.

Sincerely,
O. C. Kimbro

Determination Helps Carver

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — When Johnny Carver was in high school, his mother made him get up at 6 o'clock to milk the cows. Since his country music band was playing every night until 2 a.m., he was a miserable milker.

"I'd sleep from 2 until 6, then sleep three hours after school," Carver recalled. "Mom wanted to see just how badly I wanted to sing. I'm grateful. It made me determined."

His farm-fed determination carried him to a successful country music career that includes six hits.

His version of "Tie a Yellow Ribbon 'Round the Old Oak Tree" was No. 1 on the country charts. "You Really Haven't Changed" and "Afternoon Delight" were No. 2 and "Don't Tell (That Sweet Old Lady of Mine)," "Tonight Someone's Falling in Love" and "Hold Me Tight" were No. 3.

He's recorded five albums, traveled 150,000 miles a year entertaining and sung on the Grand Ole Opry. His current release is "Sweet City Woman," a hit a few years ago by The Stampeders.

It's his fourth "cover" record (one recorded originally by someone else). Consequently, he's noted for lending a country flavor to pop hits.

"It's pretty easy to do," said Carver, 36, who's often compared to Bobby Vinton because they look alike and share similar performing styles.

"The basic arrangement is there," the Jackson, Miss., native said. "You don't want to change too much. Tony Orlando had horns and strings on 'Tie a Yellow Ribbon' and I used guitars. That basically is the only difference.

"It was the same with 'Afternoon Delight.' It's foolish to change something that's already good. If it's a good song with the right arrangement, you should leave it alone."

On his rise to stardom, he worked nightclubs six nights a week for 13 years. Like arising at 6 a.m. to milk two cows for two hours, there are memories.

"I dropped in a club once in Montana, and the band was set up in the men's restroom," he recalled. "You'd go to use the bathroom and ask for a song."

Another time he was performing in Indiana (he won't name the city), when 400 in the audience of 500 began fighting.

"They fought for 40 minutes," he said. "We went into a back room, and you could hear them fighting way back there. They had to call ambulances."

His current act includes hit songs only.

"I feel that singing something else is wasting three minutes of someone's time," he said.

His promoters describe him as the personification of "modern country," but he's hardpressed to describe it.

"Charlie Rich was doing it two years ago with 'Behind Closed Doors' and those things," he said. "I guess it's anything capable of crossing over (to pop charts)."

"I profess to be a singer, not any particular kind. I don't come on stage and say 'Welcome to my country music show.'"

He believes that country, pop and rock music will eventually lose their identities.

"Pop, rock and country make a great marriage," he said.

Lawyers Disagree On Unions In Military

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pentagon lawyers can't agree among themselves on whether servicemen and servicewomen can be barred from joining labor unions.

But there is general agreement among the lawyers that the Pentagon has the power to prohibit negotiations between labor unions and the defense establishment on military pay, working conditions or anything else.

The debate appears to boil down to an argument over whether a ban on allowing membership in a union would infringe on a service member's constitutional rights.

Pentagon lawyers have been grappling with the problem of how to frame regulations in such a way as to keep them from being voided by the courts.

Army attorneys contend the Defense Department has legal authority to rule out union membership. Defense Department General Counsel Richard Wiley reportedly challenges the Army position. Lawyers for the Air Force and Navy are described as uncertain.

A current defense directive says commanders are not authorized to recognize or to bargain with any servicemen's union.

Many civilian workers belong to the American Federation of Government Employees, which represents them before congressional committees. Government workers may not strike and their pay rates are fixed by Congress. But the union may bargain with federal agencies on working conditions and is available to help individual employees in event of grievances.

The union has been considering for more than a year whether to try to sign up men and women in uniform. AFGE leaders decided last month to delay a decision amid reports of disagreement among them.

The present Pentagon leadership, both civilian and military, is universally opposed to unionization of the armed forces. It is not yet known how the Carter administration will view the question.

Gen. George S. Brown, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, testified last year that "every country that has had unionization within its uniformed side of the military establishment has paid one terrific price in operational effectiveness."

Other senior military officers have said unions in the armed forces "would be detrimental to good order and discipline."

San Francisco Leads Latest AP Cage Poll

By SHELDON SAKOWITZ
AP Sports Writer

The undefeated University of San Francisco Dons, using the Rainbow Classic in Honolulu as a springboard, have displaced Michigan as the nation's top college basketball team in the weekly Associated Press Top Twenty poll.

The Dons, in boosting their record to 15-0 last week, collected 963 points, including 28 first-place votes, in the balloting announced today.

San Francisco, third a week ago, won three games en route to the championship of the Rainbow Classic holiday tournament. The Dons defeated St. John's, N.Y., 80-70 and Arizona State 114-96 in the opening rounds, then captured the championship with an 86-81 victory over Houston.

Michigan, 7-1, dropped to fifth place in the rankings after an 82-81 double overtime loss to Providence in the Friar Classic last week. The Wolverines had held the top spot all season. Michigan, however, won two games during the week, beating Rhode Island and South Carolina.

Cincinnati, 9-0, took over the runner-up position with 830 points, including six first-place votes. The Bearcats, fifth last week, posted victories during the week over South Carolina and Indiana. Kentucky, sixth last week, moved up to third with 791 points and 13 first-place ballots. The Wildcats played only once during the week, downing Notre Dame 102-78, raising their record to 7-1.

Kentucky also saw action Monday night, outlasting Georgia 64-59 in overtime. Undefeated Alabama, 9-0, remained fourth, topping Western Michigan in its only game of the week. The Crimson Tide amassed 737 points with one first-place vote. Alabama played Monday night, edging Auburn 74-71.

Michigan accumulated 686 points with four votes for No. 1.

North Carolina, 8-1, catapulted from ninth to sixth. The Tar Heels had a lone first-place vote in collecting 528 points. North Carolina beat Oral Roberts, Oregon and Weber State last week.

UCLA, 10-1, jumped from eighth to seventh with 515 points after victories over Southern Methodist, Utah State and Houston.

Notre Dame, second last week, plummeted to eighth as a result of its loss to Kentucky. The Fighting Irish, 7-1 through Sunday, compiled 461 points. Notre Dame absorbed another setback Monday night, bowing to Princeton 76-62.

Nevada-Las Vegas and Wake Forest rounded out the Top Ten. Nevada-Las Vegas climbed from 11th to ninth with 219 points and Wake Forest fell from seventh to 10th with 212.

Clemson, 10th, a week ago, fell out of the Top Ten after losing to Marquette.

Others in the Top Twenty include No. 11 Arizona, No. 12 Marquette, No. 13 Minnesota, No. 14 Louisville, No. 15 Maryland, No. 16 Clemson, No. 17 Providence, No. 18 Arkansas, No. 19 Syracuse and No. 20 Memphis State.

Unranked Princeton Cruises Past Irish, Las Vegas Romps

By SHELDON SAKOWITZ
AP Sports Writer

It's back to the drawing board to work on fundamentals today for Notre Dame's slumping basketball team and dejected Coach Digger Phelps.

Notre Dame, No. 8 in this week's Associated Press poll, absorbed its second straight setback Monday night, losing on the road to unranked Princeton 76-62.

The Tigers utilized a tenacious defense and had little trouble solving Notre Dame's full-court press. The Fighting Irish failed to rattle Princeton, which worked the ball around for good shots and hit with consistency.

Bill Omeltchenko and Tim Olah, the Tigers' guards, displayed sound ballhandling ability. They dribbled around the Irish kill time and consistently hit the open man, passing off with precision to set up the shots.

"But the other thing that beat us was turnovers," said Phelps. "I can't overemphasize this, both in our loss to Kentucky and tonight — they killed us."

Notre Dame gave away the ball 26 times and also sent Princeton foul shooters to the free throw line 34 times.

The Fighting Irish had won their first seven games, including victories over Maryland and UCLA, and had been ranked second nationally last week. But last Thursday night, Notre Dame traveled to Kentucky and was beaten by the Wildcats 102-78.

Notre Dame hit on only 39 per cent of its shots against Princeton's tough defense, the stingiest in the country. Don "Duck" Williams, the leading scorer for the Irish, connected on only three of 13 shots. The Tigers, in raising their record to 7-2, have allowed only 55 points per game.

Bob Slaughter topped Princeton with 19 points and Frank Sowinski hit six-for-six from both the floor and foul line and scored 18 points for the Tigers, who led 35-25 at halftime. Bill Paterno topped the Irish with 15.

In other games Monday night involving Top Ten teams, third-ranked Kentucky outlasted Georgia 64-59 in overtime; Alabama, No. 4, edged Auburn 74-71, and ninth-ranked Nevada-Las Vegas turned back Colorado 113-91.

Eddie Owens and Reggie Theus provided the scoring impetus in keying Nevada-Las Vegas' conquest of Colorado. Owens hit for 24 points and Theus contributed 22 as the Rebels won their 11th game in 12 outings and posted their 49th straight home court victory.

Butch Lee sank seven of his first 10 shots and wound up with 18 points in triggering 12th-ranked Marquette to a 63-45 victory over Georgia Tech; freshman Darrell Griffith scored a career-high 23 points, including four in overtime, leading 14th-rated Louisville past Florida State 78-75, and sophomore Dale Shackleford's 30 points led Syracuse, No. 19, to a 93-61 verdict over Cornell.

Franklin Wouldn't Be Able To Kick Barefoot In Pro Football

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Pro football scouts are drooling over the barefoot place-kicking exploits of collegian Tony Franklin but their eager anticipation is tempered somewhat by a touch of reality plus a measure of uncertainty.

As a sophomore at Texas A&M, the shoeless wonder has two more seasons before he puts himself on the money block. Also, nobody knows how well he might do if his toes are cramped by a tight leather shoe.

"When he goes to the pros, he will have to wear shoes," warned Jim Kensil, executive director of the National Football League. "League rules — everybody's equipment has to be the same."

Also in the NFL, Franklin will have a narrow crossbar target — an 18.6-foot crossbar instead of the 24.6 used by college teams — and will have to do his stuff without the benefit of a two-inch tee, barred by the pros.

None of this may matter. Franklin's forte is unbelievable pedal power. He banged a 62-yarder in the Sun Bowl Sunday as Texas A&M beat Florida 37-14. During the season he exploded a boot of 65 yards — an NCAA record.

Franklin's Sun Bowl field goal sailed 10 or 15 yards over the bar, giving rise to speculation that he probably would have hit from 10 yards farther back.

"I think I'll get that 70-yarder some day," the youngster said confidently.

Franklin is a soccer-style kicker, meaning he belts the ball with his instep. With or without shoes, he looms as a future redhot commodity in a game which glorifies its quarterbacks but subsists on podiatry.

The all-time leading scorer of the NFL is not one of the glamor touchdown makers such as Jim Brown or Gale

Sayers but the old field goal kicker, George Blanda with 2,002 points, followed by another placement specialist, Lou Groza, with 1,349.

The 1976 scoring champion wasn't Pittsburgh's Franco Harris or Minnesota's Chuck Foreman, but Baltimore kicker Toni Linhart, 109 points, with 20 field goals and 49 extra points.

Harris and Foreman tied for ninth with 84.

Franklin is not the first or only player to succeed with an unorthodox technique. Michigan State turned up about 10 years ago with a barefoot kicker out of Hawaii named Dick Kinney but Kinney flunked his pro tryout with the Philadelphia Eagles. Texas Tech currently has a young man who does extra point and short yardage assignments with a wooden leg.

The NFL is finicky about equipment and no one is more demanding on proper uniform attire than Minnesota's Bud Grant, who sends his Vikings against Oakland's Raiders in the Super Bowl here Sunday.

Before playing Washington in the divisional playoffs, Grant complained that the Redskins' kicker, Mark Moseley, was using an illegal kicking shoe with lead in the toe. The NFL investigated and found no hidden ballast.

Raiders Send Scouts To Practice Facility

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Leave it to Al Davis to leave nothing to chance.

The mysterious, sometimes sinister, and always secretive head man of the Oakland Raiders Monday sent his advance troops to the battleground of Super Bowl XI a day before the team's arrival to scout the training facilities.

The troops: Head coach John Madden and all his assistants. Their mission: Checking all the nooks and crannies of the University of California at Irvine.

That might not seem like such a big deal — but Minnesota Coach Bud Grant can surely understand the Raiders' apprehension and thoroughness.

Remember Super Bowl VIII in Houston? Grant does. His Vikings were totally unprepared for what they found when they arrived, namely a high school field assigned to them for practice. And it took a 20-minute bus ride every day to get the Vikings there from their hotel while the Miami Dolphins could simply stroll across the street to their facilities, the Houston Oilers' practice field.

"Sparrows in the showers," Grant muttered after getting his first look at the Vikings' workout scene. It became a cause celebre — and Grant became $1,500 poorer when National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle fined him for his editorial comments.

No one knows whether the Raiders are pleased with their UC-Irvine training camp or their Newport Beach hotel a 10-minute bus ride away — and if Madden is any sort of diplomat, we'll never know.

It's already known, though, that Grant doesn't like the idea of the Vikings being quartered in Costa Mesa, 10 minutes from their training camp, the Los Angeles Rams' in-season training site at Blair Field in Long Beach. The problem, Grant points out, is that it's perhaps a two-hour bus ride north from Costa Mesa (and from Newport Beach, for that matter) to Pasadena and the Rose Bowl, the scene of Sunday's game. So Grant and the Vikes will be pulling up stakes in Costa Mesa on Friday and sequestering themselves in Pasadena for the final 48 hours or so.

And the Raiders also may be less than thrilled with their location. It is understood that Madden and his players will check into a motel near Pasadena a day or two before Sunday's game.

So much for logistics. One of the most meaningful statistics of this game is that one of the teams has to come out of it a winner, a major change for both of them.

The Raiders, perhaps more than any other team in the league, have been symbolic of life's losers. In nine of the last 10 years, they have won division titles. In only one of those previous eight have they managed to make it through the playoffs and into the Super Bowl. And in all three they came out on the short end, losing 16-6 to Pittsburgh two years ago, 24-7 to Miami three years ago and 23-7 to Kansas City seven years ago.

The Vikings, too, have made failure a habit of sorts. They've won division titles eight of the last nine seasons. In the previous seven, they managed three trips to the Super Bowl. And in all three they came out on the short end, losing 16-6 to Pittsburgh two years ago, 24-7 to Miami three years ago and 23-7 to Kansas City seven years ago.

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky Coach Joe Hall doesn't put great stock in basketball polls, but he readily admits that coaches, players — and especially fans — just eat them up.

Hall's Wildcats, 8-1, were rated today as the third best team in the country, finishing behind top-ranked San Francisco, the dominant leader, and runnerup Cincinnati, which got less than half as many first place votes as the Wildcats.

"These things are good for fan interest," Hall said. "But let's be serious. It's only the last one that counts."

Hall's team, the defending champions of the National Invitation Tournament, has lost only one game this season, that a 70-68 loss to Utah on a last-second shot in the championship game of the University of Kentucky Invitational Tournament.

Since then, the Wildcats have thrashed then-second ranked Notre Dame 102-78 in a game at Louisville's Freedom Hall that the Wildcats led by 34 before turning matters over to substitutes.

The Wildcats, favored this year to win the Southeastern Conference championship for the 30th time, were somewhat shaky Monday night in their first league game, winning 64-59 in overtime over Georgia.

"We're just tickled to death with a victory, however it comes," Hall said, looking forward to his regionally televised date with Vanderbilt next Saturday.

The Wildcats had moved as high as third once before this year, after rolling to wins over Northwestern (72-64), Texas Christian (103-53), defending national champion Indiana (66-51), Kansas (90-63) and South Carolina (98-67).

But the Cats slid to sixth after losing in the finals of the UKIT to Utah, and moved up to fifth last week although idle.

Kentucky's game with Georgia officially opened the SEC season, which appears ratings-wise to shape up as a battle between Hall's third ranked Wildcats and fourth-ranked Alabama, coached by Hall's former Kentucky teammate C. M. Newton. The Tide is 10-0.

Auburn Coach Blasts His Star Player After Loss

By TOM SALADINO
AP Sports Writer

Coach C.M. Newton took Alabama's opening Southeastern Conference victory over Auburn calmly, as usual. The same could not be said for War Eagle Coach Bob Davis.

"They were just too damn tough. They wanted it more than us," said Davis after No. 4 Alabama edged Auburn 74-71. He then ripped into senior guard Eddie Johnson, one of the top performers in the SEC the past three years.

"We had things going our way and I substituted," said Davis. "I put Johnson back in for a freshman and that was a mistake."

Auburn trailed 57-54 with about 10 minutes left when Davis sent in freshman guard Bubba Price for Johnson. Price scored six points in two minutes to help Auburn to a 62-57 lead with 8:31 left and Davis sent Johnson back in.

"Johnson will never go back in a game like this again," said Davis. "He doesn't want it. We may not ever use him against them again. Alabama took him apart for the third time. He is trying to live on his reputation and he doesn't have one."

Johnson had 10 points in the game.

"Auburn is definitely the best basketball team we've played," said Newton whose Crimson Tide is now 10-0. Auburn dropped to 6-2.

Johnny Darden hit six straight free throws in the final 57 seconds to help Tennessee to its victory as Coach Ray Mears returned for his first game of the season after being hospitalized for physical exhaustion.

Ernie Grunfeld led Tennessee, 7-2, with 23 points and Bernard King added 16 points and 13 rebounds. Charles Davis led Vanderbilt, 4-5, with 22 points.

Al Bonner scored 26 points and Bob Smyth 20 to power Florida, 8-1. Gary Hooke had 21 for State, 8-2.

Kenny Higgs scored 27 points and freshman Durand Macklin added 19 to lead LSU, 8-2. John Billips had 20 points and 16 rebounds for Ole Miss, 6-4.

In SEC clashes Wednesday night, Mississippi State is at Auburn, Alabama at Florida and Georgia at Vanderbilt.

Spurs Rip Braves

142-109 In NBA

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Buffalo Braves Coach Tates Locke says he now realizes he should not have let his team take off Sunday.

That realization came after the San Antonio Spurs trounced the Braves 142-109 in a National Basketball Association game Monday night.

The loss was the Braves' 15th in 19 road games. San Antonio won its sixth straight home game and boosted its home record to 15-2.

The Spurs, who built a 66-50 halftime lead as the Braves shot a cold 35 per cent from the field, took command late in the third quarter. San Antonio led 87-76 in the third period before striking for 17 straight points in less than four minutes, building their advantage to 104-76. The Braves trailed by as many as 37 in the final period.

San Antonio was paced by George Gervin's 24 points and 20 each from Mike Gale and Mack Calvin. Buffalo was led by Adrian Dantley and Randy Smith, each with 17 points.

Wildcats Survive Upset Scare, Slip By Bulldogs

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — "This was a key game for us because it was the first time we have played against a slow down," Kentucky Coach Joe Hall said after Kentucky's 64-59 overtime basketball victory over Georgia.

"I thought we did what we had to do," added Hall, whose club won the Southeastern Conference opener for both teams.

Frustrated by the Georgia stall, Kentucky was behind in most of the first half and trailed by four points with 5:12 left in regulation. Kentucky center Rick Robey took charge in the next three minutes to all but insure a 53-53 tie at game's end.

After the Wildcats used their own brand of stalling tactics to open the overtime, Robey powered a layin to put Kentucky ahead and hit a free throw with 2:06 to go in the extra period to give Kentucky a 56-53 lead.

James Lee, the Wildcats' top substitute, converted a steal into a layin and two free throws on an intentional foul by Georgia's Pete Fusi for a 60-55 bulge. Lee added two more free throws 30 seconds later and it was all over.

Hall said he was surprised at Georgia's stall, "but it served its purpose for them in that we sort of got lulled into a slow down."

Mike Phillips, whose scores more points per minute than any Kentucky player, was lifted in the first half and didn't return to the floor even though the foul-prone junior hadn't committed a miscue.

"We didn't play Phillips in the second half because we felt we needed more quickness to combat their forwards," Hall said. "He played well in the first half but we felt it would be better for us to go with the quickness."

That meant a lineup of Robey, who scored 16 points, at center; Jack Givens, with 17 points, and Lee, with 10, at forwards; and Jay Shidler, with 11, and Larry Johnson, with two, at guards.

Johnson and Shidler, however, each spent some time on the bench sporting four personal fouls.

Georgia Coach John Guthrie denied that his game plan involved any kind of stall, but instead termed it "a cat-and-mouse game."

"Our strategy was that we wanted to score, but we wanted to spread Kentucky out so some of our kids could penetrate," Guthrie said.

"Our people maintained their composure even when we got behind. We thought we were going to win the game," he added.

Georgia's Walter Daniels led all scorers with 20 points, hitting 10 of 17 from the field. Curtis Jackson added 17 for the Bulldogs and David Reavis pitched in 14. Georgia hit 28 of its 49 shots for slightly over 57 per cent while Kentucky connected on 25 of 48. The difference, of course, was at the free throw line, where Georgia made three of six and Kentucky 14 of 20.

Pittsburgh Crowned As New National Champs

To Play In Tourney

CINCINNATI (AP) — Rod Laver, Bjorn Borg and young Billy Martin are scheduled to compete in a $22,000 indoor tennis tournament Feb. 12.

The three will play in round-robin competition, then a best-of-three set competition will be held between the two top round-robin scorers.

The competition will be held at Riverfront Coliseum.

Borg and Laver have been among international tennis' dominant names for several years. Martin recently was named as male rookie player for 1976 by "Tennis Magazine."

The Steelers failed to bring a football title to Pittsburgh this season but the Pitt Panthers did.

Barely one week after the defending pro champion Steelers were eliminated from the National Football League playoffs, the unbeaten and untied University of Pittsburgh Panthers were named today as winners of college football's national championship.

Pitt, which wrapped up its first all-winning season in 58 years Saturday by routing

Georgia 27-3 in the Sugar Bowl for a 12-0 record, was an overwhelming and near-perfect winner in The Associated Press' national championship poll.

The Panthers received 59 of 62 first-place votes and 1,234 of a possible 1,240 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters. It was their first national championship in 39 years and second since The AP poll originated in 1936.

Pitt, ninth in the preseason poll, moved up to third place by winning its opener handily against Notre Dame on the road 31-10. The Panthers then climbed into second place behind Michigan on the third weekend of the season and took over the top spot when the Wolverines were upset by Purdue 16-14 on Nov. 6.

Southern California, which won 11 games in a row — including a 14-6 triumph over Michigan in the Rose Bowl — after dropping its opener to Missouri 46-25, finished second in the final rankings. The Trojans received the other three first-place votes and 1,118 points in moving up from third in the final regular-season poll.

Michigan, which was No. 1 for the first eight weeks of the campaign, slipped from second to third with 847 points. Houston's Cinderella Cougars, unranked before the season, jumped from sixth to fourth with 804 points by upending previously unbeaten Maryland 30-21 in the Cotton Bowl.

Then came defending champion Oklahoma, up from eight place to fifth with 638 points following a 41-7 Fiesta Bowl rout of Wyoming. The two-time champion Sooners, who got as high as third place early in the season, fell short in their bid for an unprecedented third consecutive national title.

Rounding out the Top Ten were Ohio State, 11th in the previous poll but a 27-10 winner over Colorado in the Orange Bowl; Texas A&M, up from 10th to seventh by walloping Florida 37-14 in the Sun Bowl; Maryland, down from fourth to eighth; Nebraska, the preseason leader, which jumped from 13th to ninth by downing Texas Tech 27-24 in the Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl; and Georgia, which was fifth in the previous ratings and had an outside shot at the national championship until losing to Pitt.

Standing On The Firing Line

Long Layoff Could Hurt Tigers Tonight

Being a sportswriter is absolutely crazy. Just over two weeks ago, I had covered something like 17 games in 13 nights and swore I'd never want to see another game.

But after the long break plus too many hours of watching the boob tube, I've decided I'll never again worry about how many basketball games I have to cover.

Tonight sends the two local teams and about everyone else in the First Region back into action. For the season, the cage picks stand at 32-12, which isn't too bad considering basketball games are tough to pick.

Here goes the first effort of 1977.

MARSHALL COUNTY at Murray High by four — When picking games, you have to be a little scientific about it. First of all, Marshall County played three games in the Tilghman Christmas Tournament while the Tigers stayed home and ate Christmas cookies and candy.

The Marshals are big, considerably larger than the Tigers. Andrea Perry should be available for duty tonight and his presence could offset some of the Marshall County advantage. But even though the game is at Murray and the Tigers have a reputation of playing tough against the Marshals, you have to go with Marshall County because of their games over vacation.

Wingo at CALLOWAY COUNTY — The Lakers can go over the hump tonight and sport a winning record if they can get past Wingo. Neither team has played for quite some period of time and both clubs might be a little error-prone. The Lakers should win this one by at least 13 points.

Griffith Scores 23 As 'Cards Struggle To Win

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — "We obviously weren't ready to play," said Coach Denny Crum after Louisville struggled to a 78-75 overtime victory over Florida State in their opening Metro-7 Conference game.

Crum also was displeased with the officiating and said he didn't know why he had drawn a technical early in the game. Calling Florida State's record misleading, Crum said Monday's game was anything but a crowd-pleaser.

The 13,000 fans at Freedom Hall booed repeatedly during the first half and Crum reminded his Cardinals of that at intermission. "You didn't hustle," he said he told them. Florida State Coach Hugh Durham said the loss, which even his team's record at 5-5, came because "we made some dumb mistakes at crucial times."

Durham repeatedly changed the Seminoles' defense throughout the second half "to keep Louisville off balance but we blew our opportunities." Louisville, now 8-2, picked up 13 points each from Williams and Phillip Bond and their teammate, Wesley Cox, added 11. Cox now has scored 1,249 points, the 10th best total in Louisville's history. Thompson and Carlton Byrd pumped in 16 points each for the Seminoles and Wayne Smalls added 14.

With 1:38 left in regulation play, Williams hit from the side to bring Louisville to within two points of Florida State, 70-68. Louisville called time out and, with 22 seconds showing on the clock, Griffith pumped one in to send the game into the extra session.

Griffith, who fouled out with 57 seconds left, ended the night with 23 points, a career high.

Estill County Schools Cut Programs For Gas

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Students in one eastern Kentucky county won't be able to study agriculture and botany this winter at their high school's greenhouses.

Closing the greenhouses is one of several energy conservation measures approved by Estill County school officials Monday to counteract an anticipated natural gas shortage this winter.

Officials had considered closing schools altogether for up to a month this winter and making up the lost days in June. On Monday, they rejected that approach — for now.

"Although it's still a possibility, we're not likely to close schools in the immediate future," Supt. Billy White Davis said after meeting with administrators and members of the Board of Education. "It just creates too many problems."

"We'll continue to operate until someone tells us there just isn't any more gas," Davis said by telephone from Irvine.

Davis said school officials also decided to move all basketball games from the gas-heated high school gym to the middle school gym, which is heated by coal and electricity; and to close the middle school's separate industrial arts building.

"We think that by these actions we'll be able to get through to March," said Davis, who supervises seven schools and 3,200 pupils.

Davis, reacting to a 40 per cent gas curtailment by Columbia Gas Co. of Lexington, said Sunday he didn't think his school system could make it through the winter with its present allocations.

Harold McCracken, gas utilization representative for Columbia Gas, acknowledged a "40 per cent curtailment is hard to live with" but said he didn't think any school systems would have to close this winter.

"It's my opinion that no schools will have to close because if the problem becomes too serious, it's more than likely that a pooling arrangement will be initiated through the state energy office," McCracken said.

Under the pooling plan, institutions with abundant supplies transfer natural gas to those suffering shortages.

McCracken said he plans to meet with Estill County school officials this week to discuss their supply situation and review their energy saving steps. He said one measure, the closing of the central office building, will be particularly helpful.

McCracken held out the slim hope that Columbia Gas, which serves 33 central and eastern Kentucky counties, might increase its allocations to schools if residential and small commercial users conserve energy effectively and if the weather warms up.

"This is the winter we've been fearing," McCracken said, adding that temperatures are running 41 per cent below normal. "This is the kind of winter that's had us highly concerned since the energy curtailments started in 1973."

Davis said he doubts whether his school system's plight alone will affect gas allocations this winter.

"We're just too small," he said. "We're at the mercy of the powers above us. This is something that has to be done at the state and national level."

'House Call' To Cave Unique For Doctor

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — "It certainly was the most unique house call I ever made," says Dr. Larry Maynard, whose latest house call really wasn't a house call at all.

It was a "cave call," and it turned Maynard on to the sport of exploring caverns.

Maynard made his cave call on Sunday, descending deep into a cavern to help rescue a man who'd fallen into an 100-foot pit.

It was the first such experience for the 39-year-old physician but he hopes it won't be his last.

"It was very exciting," said Maynard, who runs the emergency room at the Bowling Green-Warren County Hospital. "It's very interesting, and I think I'd like to go back — not the same way or under the same circumstances, but I'd like to go back."

Leo Dolata, 30, of Louisville, was trapped for eight hours in a Hart County cave with a broken leg Sunday after falling through a narrow crevice while exploring with two friends, John Moos, 25, of Louisville, and Larry Royse, 37, of Clarksville, Ind.

Moos said Dolata slid on his chest down a curved embankment, then "flipped into the air" and fell into the hole. Moos talked with Dolata while Royse went to a nearby farmhouse to call for help.

Within two hours, rescuers, including Dr. Maynard, had arrived, and began descending into the hole equipped with a propane gas lantern.

"I gladly went in," Maynard said in an interview on Monday. "We had to descend 80 or 90 feet by rope ladder to get to him.

"We got down to him, checked him over, evaluated him, and the only injury I could find was a fractured left leg," Maynard said. "We took a splint and strapped him on the stretcher and hoisted him up by way of rope."

"It was very difficult, getting him to the top and trying to maneuver him through those small passageways," Maynard said. "Some places, we had to turn him up on his side."

But within an hour and a half, the rescue team had brought Dolata to the surface and he was rushed to a nearby hospital.

While Maynard and rescuers worked below ground, his wife, son and others waited at the opening to the cave.

"Surprisingly, it was very warm down there, but very, very interesting," said Maynard. "I told my wife I want to go back, to do this, but she said she's not going back in with me. She's excited though that I was able to go down and help someone."

He said it's just not true that doctors don't make house calls anymore, although before Sunday, it had been quite some time since he'd visited a patient at home.

"There are still a few of us who make house calls," he said. "I still make a few."

Royse said Dolata was conscious just a few seconds after his fall and was able to describe his injuries before Maynard went down in the hole.

Dolata's condition was listed as satisfactory on Monday.

Erroll Garner Services Set In Pittsburgh

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jazz pianist Erroll Louis Garner, who performed at Carnegie Hall and won international acclaim though he never learned to read music, has died of a heart attack at 53.

Garner, who died Sunday en route to Cedars Sinai Medical Center here, had been seriously ill with emphysema for several years and had been discharged from the hospital near his home just last Wednesday.

His body was to be flown to his native Pittsburgh for burial.

His best-known composition was "Misty," which he recorded in 1956. With words added later by Johnny Burke, the song became a hit for singers Johnny Mathis and Sara Vaughan and was featured in the Clint Eastwood film, "Play Misty for Me."

Garner also wrote such hits as "Dreamy," "Gaslight," "Solitaire" and "That's My Kick." His most famous album was "Concerts by the Sea."

Born in 1923, Garner began playing the piano at age 3 when he simply stood and reached up to the keys. He could memorize any piece at one sitting and resisted efforts to teach him to read music.

Garner's late father, Ernest, played the trombone, mandolin and piano as a hobby. Three of Garner's five brothers and sisters are amateur musicians, and a fourth is a professional arranger.

Garner began appearing regularly on station KDKA 14 Pittsburgh at age 7 with a group called the Candy Kids. By age 11, he was substituting for pianists on Allegheny riverboats.

He began playing with local groups in 1937 and went to New York in 1944, where he took engagements at small clubs. He worked with the Slam Stewart trio, then formed a trio of his own and appeared in the Paris Jazz Festival in 1948. French critics called him "the man with 40 fingers."

He performed with the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra in 1957 and made return appearances with that organization four times. In 1959, he made his debut at Carnegie Hall in New York.

Garner's work brought him international awards. He received the French Prix du Disque for jazz recording in Paris in 1957 and the same year was chosen best pianist by the International Jazz Critics Poll of Downbeat Magazine.

He performed with the National Symphony Orchestra in Washington, D.C., during the 1974-1975 season. His latest album, "Magician," was issued in 1974-75.

New Morehead President On Job Monday

MOREHEAD, Ky. (AP) — Dr. Morris Norfleet, new president of Morehead State University, says he will strive for "continuity, adaptability and flexibility" in his administration.

Norfleet told a news conference Monday that "we are going to work for continuity in our programs and policies while being flexible and adaptable in any situation."

Norfleet noted that this was his first day on the job and said he would concentrate on getting the spring semester under way and then turn his attention to preparing the annual operating budget.

"I see no administrative changes in the immediate future," he said. "We have outstanding young administrators at Morehead. I know we can work together in a team effort."

He said Morehead will be a comprehensive regional university, serving Eastern Kentucky and the Commonwealth.

Norfleet, 46, succeeds Dr. Adron Doran, who had been president since 1954. Doran retired Dec. 31.

Louis Jacques-Daguerre, inventor of the daguerreotype, began his career as a scene painter for the opera.

Washington Roundup

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic controlled 95th Congress gets started today with new leadership and an avowed eagerness to work with the first Democrat to occupy the White House in eight years. Congressional Democrats plan to get a quick start on Carter's economic program by introducing a $4 billion public works bill.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford is setting the stage for one more battle with Congress in his last 16 days in office as he moves to life price controls on gasoline. The President was to announce his proposal today as the new 95th Congress opened. Congress then will have 15 days in which to veto Ford's proposal. If Congress does not act, the lid will be off gas prices on Jan. 19, the day before Ford leaves office.

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — President-elect Carter is making public a code of ethics for top government officials and disclosing his plans for dealing with his own financial holdings to avoid conflicts of interest. Carter has said the ethics code is "very strict" and will require Cabinet members and other key government officials to divest themselves of holdings that could pose a conflict of interest. In addition, he has said he will require that each appointee submit a detailed statement of his net worth.

DETROIT (AP) — Douglas A. Fraser, a Scottish immigrant who started out as a metal finisher in a DeSoto plant, has emerged as the likely next president of the 1.4-million member United Auto Workers union. Fraser, a 60-year-old UAW vice president, appeared certain to succeed retiring President

State Employees Sent Home Early

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — State employees were sent home at 3:30 p. m. Monday, an hour early, because of bad road conditions.

Streets were still slick from the pre-dawn snowfall of two to three inches in the capital city. City and Franklin County road crews had been called out at 7 a. m. and worked more than three hours before rush-hour traffic jams were cleared.

Police reported no traffic accidents severe enough to cause injuries, however, and local schools operated normally. County Supt. Edward Wright said there was some initial confusion among parents because a Louisville radio station had announced that Franklin County schools would be closed.

Carter Making Public His 'Code Of Ethics'

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — President-elect Carter is making public a code of ethics for top government officials and disclosing his plans for dealing with his own financial holdings to avoid conflicts of interest.

Carter has said the ethics code is "very strict" and will require Cabinet members and other key government officials to divest themselves of holdings that could pose a conflict of interest. In addition, he has said he will require that each appointee submit a detailed statement of his net worth.

Carter has given no hint of what he plans to do about his own holdings in farm lands near here and a peanut marketing partnership with his brother Billy and mother Lillian.

However, a key aide said Monday he expected the incoming president to "give up" most of his private interests. The aide did not say whether Carter planned to divest himself of the interests or place them in trusts designed to isolate his family's holdings from government decisions that might affect their value.

Carter has told reporters that the ethical guidelines will require each top official to write him a letter pledging that they will serve their full appointed terms and will not, once those terms end, move immediately from government into private employment with firms doing business with their former government agencies.

Carter first promised to make the ethics guidelines public on Dec. 20, but his press secretary, Jody Powell, discovered there was no copy of the pertinent documents here. An announcement then was promised for last Friday, but Carter ordered it delayed as, part of an effort to encourage reporters covering his activities to return to their homes for the New Year's holiday.

Meanwhile, Carter worked Monday on his plans to reorganize the federal bureaucracy.

After meeting with Carter, Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Tex., chairman of the House Government Operations Committee, predicted the incoming president will quickly be given fresh authority by Congress to propose reorganization plans, subject to veto by either the House or Senate within 60 days.

Brooks also predicted Congress will act favorably on Carter's specific proposals to revamp the bureaucracy, although acknowledging that agencies Carter wants to abolish will have vocal defenders and the entire operation will find lobbyists "jumping through the hoop."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Early congressional action on President Ford's proposal to make Puerto Rico the 51st state is unlikely because of opposition from congressional leaders and the possibility Ford's term in office may run out before he can submit the legislation. Leaders of the two congressional panels with jurisdiction over legislation affecting Puerto Rico say they have no intention of holding committee hearings on Ford's proposal.

Controversy Over Pesticides May Be Of Benefit To Public

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — The nationwide controversy over pesticides may benefit the public by making people more aware of the dangers of bug poisons, a Kentucky official predicts.

But recent charges of "chaos" in the federal pesticide program won't reduce state reliance on federal testing, according to Frederick Waters, pesticides supervisor in the state Bureau of Natural Resources.

Waters said Monday that Kentucky and other states depend on the federal government to determine which pesticides should be allowed on the market.

The state's main role, he said, is to insure that farmers, exterminators and even home gardeners apply the "restricted-use" chemicals properly.

A U.S. Senate subcommittee charged after a 10-month study that poor planning and management by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has raised doubts about the protection of the public from dangerous chemicals.

The agency was accused of using safety test data that may have been faulty and incomplete.

Janeway Elected

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Ed Janeway, a Frankfort broadcast executive, has been elected president of the Frankfort-Franklin County Chamber of Commerce, the chamber has announced.

Janeway, an executive at WFKY and WKYW, said the chamber's goals for the year will include completion of plans for a new riverside hotel and a new tourist and convention center.

Even so, Waters said, "The compounds have been put through a much more intensive program than any state could put them through."

Of the 33,000 pesticides registered by the EPA for sale and use in the United States, he said, Kentucky has approved about 4,500 — "most of the major compounds."

He said the state rejects many because they could be harmful if used in Kentucky's climate, or on Kentucky's crops.

But Waters said the state's main job is to make sure the chemicals that are approved are used correctly.

He said there have been no pesticide-related deaths reported in Kentucky in recent years, and that occasional illnesses caused by the chemicals have been "because of mistakes that people make."

"Our only real problems with pesticides have been through misuse—not using them according to label directions," Waters said.

He said the state combats these problems by educating the major pesticide users.

Commercial users, such as crop dusting and spraying pilots and exterminators hired to control pests in buildings, must be licensed by the state, he said.

They must attend state training sessions such as the second annual pesticide spray school being conducted Wednesday and Thursday at Hopkinsville Community College.

The state, Waters said, "probably has done more educating on pesticides in the past two years than had been done in 100 years before that."

Starting in February, he said, sellers of restricted-use pesticides also will be required to hold state licenses, and will have to keep records to show they sell only to state-certified pesticide users.

And after October, even farmers and homeowners who want to apply restricted-use pesticides to their own fields or gardens will have to be licensed, Waters said.

He said 3,000 Kentuckians already have been trained for these licenses in "private applicator" classes given by county farm agents, and he expects 50,000 to receive the training by March 1.

"We feel kind of proud of our program," Waters said, but he pointed out that general-use pesticides—those available at neighborhood stores—will continue to be sold to all comers.

Waters said he hopes the controversy in Washington will make these untrained pesticide users—who account for up to 25 per cent of the pesticide use in the state—more aware of the dangers involved and the precautions needed.

With restricted-use for general-use pesticides, he said, "safety depends on proper storage of the chemicals and use according to the label directions. If they don't do that, there's no way you can protect them...You have to read the cottonpicking label."
